Meeting Magic: Empowering Facilitators for Effective Results

At a glance...

Are you a nonprofit professional tasked with facilitating meetings that consistently fall short of expectations? Are you tired of experiencing a lack of decision-making, unaccomplished agendas, and shouldering the majority of the workload? Look no further than our transformative workshop, "Meeting Magic". This workshop is specifically designed to empower facilitators in the nonprofit sector to achieve effective results through their meetings. Whether you conduct your meetings remotely or in person, this workshop will equip you with the essential tools to engage participants in meaningful ways and drive successful decision-making processes. Uncover the root causes behind common meeting challenges and discover practical strategies to overcome them. Gain a deep understanding of the impact of diverse personalities and perspectives on group dynamics and learn how to effectively navigate and leverage these differences for positive outcomes. And learn a repertoire of concrete techniques that will empower you to lead meetings with confidence and achieve remarkable results without giving up meaningful connections.

Objectives

1. Participants will learn about different decisions, cultures, and structures to engage different personalities.
2. Participants will learn meeting rules for enhancing collaborative high-quality decisions.
3. Participants will develop an agenda for their next meeting following the decision bell curve.

Speaker

Dr. Jamie J. Langlois is an Associate Professor in the School of Social Work at Grand Valley State University in Grand Rapids, Michigan. Jamie has taught for nineteen years in both graduate and undergraduate education. She is passionate about the scholarship of teaching and learning. In 2019, she graduated with a Doctorate in Social Work from The University of St. Thomas. The focus of the doctorate was "social work teaching as practice". She spent three years learning how to model social work values and ethics through the practice of teaching. Dr. Langlois' research and dissertation proposed a new learner-centered framework for teaching MSW students. She keeps her supervision skills sharp by teaching field education and supervising recent graduates for licensure. In 2022, Jamie co-published Interactional Supervision: A Teaching Guide for the 4th Edition - A book to help educators teach supervision.
