Tiburcio Lince (he/él)

Bio

Tiburcio is from San Antonio de Guadalupe, Zacatecas, Mexico, and moved to the U.S. in 2002. His passion for supporting first-generation college students began with TRiO Upward Bound in high school, leading to mentoring roles at Tarleton State University and graduate studies at Texas State University.

He became the first Latinx director of the Office of Diversity and Inclusion in 2019, focusing on cultural programming and mentoring initiatives for men and womyn of color. In 2022, he joined Northern Kentucky University as Director of Latino Student Initiatives, supporting Latinx, Undocu_, and international students, and leading the Ignite Hispanic Scholar Association. Guided by principles of identity exploration, intersectionality, and belonging, Tiburcio enjoys cooking traditional family recipes, traveling, and watching foreign films.
